

Thesis Catalog

Name Taro Yamadai

Doctoral thesis

Title: Title of the doctoral thesis

(It must perfectly be the same as the title of the doctoral thesis)

(If the title of the thesis is in English, enter the Japanese translation in parentheses below the English title.)

Main paper (Academic publication that serves as the basis of the doctoral thesis)

Title: Title of academic publication which becomes the basis of the doctoral thesis

(In the case of English titles, the first letter of the first word should be capitalized and the first letter of other words should be lowercased. However, this does not apply to proper nouns.)

Authors: Enter all authors' names of academic publication which becomes the basis of the doctoral thesis.

Underline the applicant's name.

Check either one

Academic journal name: Describe in accordance with below Remark 3 Published Accepted

Month and year of issue (or date of acceptance) MM/YYYY

(Volume and page) (12 (3): 456-789)

(doi:)

Main paper (Academic publication that serves as the basis of the doctoral thesis)

(If you have three or more academic publications that serve as the basis of the doctoral thesis, add lines as needed)

Title:

Authors:

Academic journal name: Published Accepted

Month and year of issue (or date of acceptance) MM/YYYY

(Volume and page) ()

(doi:)

Remarks:

1. If the title of the doctoral thesis is written in a foreign language, a Japanese translation should be added.
2. In the case of a co-authored publication, all of the author names must be included in the order in which they appear in the publication.
3. The method of listing must comply with the posting rules of the Journal of Veterinary Medical Science (JVMS): refer to the example for details. The abbreviation for the name of a European-language journal must follow the description of Medline (PubMed), Web of Science, or Scopus. In addition, the Journal of the Japan Veterinary Medical Association must be listed as the "JVMA Journal."